

A close-up photograph of a curved, ribbed metal surface, likely a large industrial tank or silo. The surface is composed of horizontal corrugated ribs, and several vertical seams are visible, each secured with a series of rivets. The lighting is dramatic, with strong highlights on the right side and deep shadows on the left, emphasizing the texture and curvature of the metal.

jin men ju

01122008

tube127

